Nadia Priebe, 13, takes part in the LGBT History Month celebrations at Stoke Newington School last month

STOKE Newington School pupils organised a Pride-style march and put on a night of musical entertainment to celebrate Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Trans (LGBT) History Month in February. The annual event was co-ordinated by Elly Barnes, the school's LGBT and diversity co-ordinator, who said: "I cannot think of a better way to show that we can eradicate homophobia in schools."

TAKING THE LEAD

A DRIVE to crackdown on irresponsible dog owners has been launched with the introduction of new by-laws, alongside a campaign against dog fouling.

The Council carried out a consultation last summer, following concern from some residents and park users about aggressive dogs, dogs that were not on leads, or were in children's play areas. The majority of people that responded were in favour of introducing three new by-laws known as Dog Control Orders (DCOs) to tackle the issues raised.

These DCOs were:

- An exclusion order – to stop dogs entering certain areas including children's playgrounds, sports courts, multi-use games areas, and marked pitches where games are in progress

- A dogs on leads order – to stop owners from exercising their pets off-lead on roads, towpaths, car parks, churchyards (with the exception of Abney Park Cemetery), communal areas on estates, and small public parks and gardens under half a hectare in size

- A dogs on leads when requested order – to give Council officers the power to request that animals are put on leads when they are not under control, causing damage or acting aggressively.

The orders were ratified by the Council's Cabinet on 27 February and will come into force from 1 April. Anyone who flouts these by-laws can be issued with a Fixed Penalty Notice by the Council's Environmental Enforcement Team, Hackney Homes staff and other partners.

Safe from harm

A 48-hour operation saw 70 arrests in Hackney

ONE of the biggest Met Police operations of the year saw Hackney officers make 70 arrests over one weekend.

Operation Condor targeted licensing breaches, anti-social behaviour, and drug-related crimes across the capital over a 48-hour period, starting on Friday, 24 February.

In Hackney, the team that took to the streets was made up of local police, officers from the wider Met, Council staff, Hackney Police Cadets and other partners – a tally that at one point reached 247 people.

Shoreditch and other nightlife hotspots were targeted. The team checked licensing conditions for 127 businesses, including pubs and clubs. Unlicensed mini cabs and shops selling alcohol and cigarettes to underage customers were also hit.

In addition, an operation against illegal taxi touts was set up in Dalston and sniffer dogs were used outside train stations to spot people carrying drugs.

Officers were also seen patrolling on horseback and closure orders were issued to venues found to be in breach of licensing laws. Further prosecutions may follow.

People were arrested for a range of suspected offences including drug possession, taxi toutting, persistent begging, theft, affray and assault. In addition, 68 bottles of counterfeit alcohol were seized.

Inspector Ian Simpkins said: "Licensing laws are put in place to help protect us and breaking them is not acceptable.

"We will do everything in our power to keep Hackney's community safe from harm and continue to support the majority of businesses in Hackney which are well run and law abiding."

In addition, Council officers will be spending more time out on the streets this summer, enforcing existing by-laws that allow them to fine anyone who does not pick up their dog's poo.

Cllr Sophie Linden, Cabinet Member for Crime, Sustainability and Customer Services, said: "We know that most dog owners in Hackney are responsible and control their dogs in public. We also understand the pleasure that owning a dog can bring. But a small minority of people are behaving irresponsibly by not keeping their dogs under control.

"These new powers will send a strong message that dogs must not be allowed to behave in a way that causes problems for the community."

Tinchy Stryder is just one of the latest big names to be signed up for the BBC Radio 1 Hackney Weekend 2012 this summer

Urban acts sign

MORE star names have signed up to perform at BBC Radio 1 Hackney Weekend 2012.

Tinchy Stryder, Sean Paul and Flo Rida are among the new acts added to the bill for this summer's free Hackney Marshes festival. The latest list, announced on Radio 1Xtra, adds more urban stars to an already impressive line-up. Other acts just announced are Mindless Behaviour, Chip, Devlin, Boy Better Know feat Skepta & JME, and Azealia Banks.

The festival is the biggest the BBC has ever staged and the biggest Hackney has ever hosted and it will celebrate the start of the Olympic Games. Florence & the Machine, Ed Sheeran, Labrinth, Professor Green, Plan B, Will.i.am and David Guetta are among more than 40 acts who will perform on 23 and 24 June and more big names are still to be announced.

Hackney residents who register are highly likely to get a ticket.

MORE INFO

To register, visit:
www.bbc.co.uk/radio1/hackneyweekend/2012

A total of 100,000 tickets are available for the event which will feature over 100 UK and international artists performing on six stages.

Ticket registration is open until 11pm on Monday 19 March. Half of all tickets available are reserved for Hackney residents but only until the 19 March deadline. Registration doesn't guarantee a ticket, but those who do register are highly likely to get one.

How to get a ticket:

Get a photo of yourself to upload – head and shoulders only

Have debit/credit card ready to pay admin fee (£2.50 per ticket)

Go to www.bbc.co.uk/radio1/hackneyweekend

Upload photo and your details on website

You'll then get a registration number

Use your registration number to order tickets on 25 & 26 March

Those under the age of 16 should get an adult to register for them. The Council will host a session at Hackney Town Hall on Thursday, 8 March for people who want help with the process. Residents can also use free computers in the borough's libraries and community centres to register and registration points will be available at the Hackney Service centre from 9 to 19 March.

The Olympic Velodrome saw thousands attend its test event

More 2012 test events tickets

HUNDREDS of residents helped fill the Olympic Velodrome to see world records broken and Sir Chris Hoy win gold at the UCI Track Cycling World Cup Classic last month. But world-class sport ahead of London 2012 is far from over. Tickets for four more test events are being released early for residents of the six host boroughs. The events are FINA Olympic Games synchronised swimming qualification at the Aquatics Centre (18-22 April); the Visa International Invitational Hockey Tournament at the Hockey Centre (2-6 May); Eton Manor's wheelchair tennis international (5 May); and the water polo international at the Water Polo Arena (3-6 May).

Advance booking opens at 9am on 13 March, using the access code HACKNEYPREPARES, and ends at 9am on 15 March. General sale begins at 10am on 15 March.

To book, visit: www.tickmaster.co.uk/londonprepares series, click on the sport you want and enter the code HACKNEYPREPARES in the 'host borough pre-sale' box.

Misfit star goes green

TV star Nathan Stuart-Jarrett was at Dalston's Arcola Theatre on 29 February to help launch a new Government-funded energy efficiency project for the borough.

The Misfits actor, who is currently appearing in 'The Pitchfork Disney' at the Arcola, was among those present who heard how Dalston Energy Angels will engage residents and businesses in community workshops. An interactive display will also show the theatre's energy consumption and savings; while a wood-fired boiler at the theatre will put waste wood from local industry to good use. For more information on the project, contact the project manager at: feimatta@arcolatheatre.com

About a book

RENOWNED author Nick Hornby joined hundreds of people to celebrate the official opening of the new Dalston CLR James Library.

Over 1,200 people visited the state-of-the-art building throughout the day on 28 February.

Nick, who signed copies of his books for fans, said: "I'm happy to be here. I was keen to come along to this completely amazing event. I wouldn't be the author that I am if it wasn't for the library. I went every Saturday morning and started reading books at a young age – it changed my life."

Unveiling a new plaque to mark the library's opening, Mayor of Hackney, Jules Pipe, said: "This is a cause

"I wouldn't be the author that I am if it wasn't for the library" for celebration, especially during these more difficult times. This fantastic facility is the most recent example of the Council's commitment to libraries.

"Libraries are the very heart of our community whether you want to borrow a book, use computers or study space, or just meet friends."

Sam Weinstein, son of the widow of author, historian and political theorist CLR James, in whose honour the library is named, also joined the celebrations. John Hegley kept the crowd entertained with poems and interactive songs.

Winners of the 'I Love

Dalston CLR James Library because...' competition were also presented with prizes on the day.

Samuel Tadese, nine, won an iPod for his entry. He said: "I used to hate reading, but now I come here and I love it."

Second place went to Milo Rothchild-Davies, 11, and in joint third was Nikita Kaur, 11, Dijon Hughes, nine, who all received book vouchers.

The new building in Dalston Square is twice the size of the one it replaces. Spread over three floors, the library covers 2,600 square metres, and features separate adult, teen and children sections, 57 computers, study space, wi-fi and self-service technology. It will host community events and reading groups.

It is also the new home for the Hackney Archives service, which has a new search room including maps, local studies books, copies of historical newspapers, and a photograph database, containing over 15,000 old photos and paintings of Hackney.

Dalston CLR James Library is open Mon-Fri, 9am-8pm; Sat, 9am-5pm; and Sun, 1-5pm.

The Queen congratulates students and staff from Hackney Community College

Jolly good show

A SHOREDITCH college that developed a training wing for people with mental health needs has received a top accolade from the Queen.

Hackney Community College (HCC) was awarded the Queen's Anniversary Prize – for its mental health support service – one of the UK's most prestigious honours for an academic or vocational institution.

Set up in 1997, the service helps users access education and supports their study and progression. From assisting around 50 people in its first year, it now supports more than 4,000 learners, prospective learners, and education staff.

HCC student Georgina, who had been suicidal and suffered serious mental health issues, is now thriving in a job. She said: “The college has given me unbelievable support and helped change my life. I can now walk around with my head held high. It's a whole different world to me now. If there are people like you in this world then it's better to live than to die.”

The service is funded by East London NHS Foundation Trust and Hackney's primary care trust.

HCC principal Ian Ashman, who collected the award at a Buckingham Palace ceremony on 24 February, said: “The college is extremely proud of the work that we do to support people with mental health needs to succeed through education.

“We are thrilled that our efforts have been recognised by Her Majesty; it's a huge honour.”

HCC was the only London college and one of only three further education institutions in the UK to receive the award.

This is the second time HCC has got a Queen's Anniversary Prize. In 1996, the college won for encouraging more young women to excel in science.

Duke visits youth projects

THE Duke of Edinburgh continued to defy his 90 years during a visit to two Hackney youth clubs last month.

Prince Phillip saw first hand Laburnum Boat Club and Hackney Quest's activities for young people such as water sports on Regent's Canal and initiatives that allow young people to design their own youth projects.

Colette Allen from Hackney Quest said the Duke spoke to its girls' fundraising rugby team as well as Heat, its board of young people.

She said: “They chatted to the Duke of Edinburgh about what they are planning to do and how they are keen to promote positive stories and showcase the talents of young people in Hackney.”

The Duke is a patron of London Youth, a charity supporting both projects as part of a network of organisations.

Plaque commemorates firefighters that died during Blitz

Blitz firefighters honoured

THE names of three of the borough's brave firefighters who died during the Blitz have been added to a civic memorial in Hackney Town Hall Square.

The plaque commemorates the sacrifice made by fireman Leonard Wilmore, who passed away in Hackney Hospital in 194; auxiliary firemen Albert Clarke, who died in Shoreditch in 1941; and M Van Holst who was killed on duty in 1940.

Representatives of the local Fire Brigade Service, Firefighters Remembered, Deputy Lieutenant Colonel Roderick Morris and other civic dignitaries attended the ceremony on 27 February.

Unveiling the plaque, Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Susan Fajana-Thomas said: “It was my honour to present a permanent record of these brave men who died while helping to protect Hackney.”

The Blitz was the sustained strategic bombing of the UK by Nazi Germany between September 1940 and May 1941.

Improvements will include a new footway

Market still open for business

MAJOR road works along Broadway Market, E8, are underway as part of plans to develop the area for pedestrians and cyclists.

When completed the improvements will include a new footway, the road will be raised to the same level as the path, fewer signs and bollards and a rearrangement of parking bays.

The work will also include planting new trees, installing more bike stands on side roads and a new junction layout at Broadway Market and Westgate Street.

The Council is working with market operators to temporarily relocate stalls, and keep pedestrian access to shops open. Oliver Walker, local resident and chairman of Broadway Area Residents & Tenants Association, said: “The improvements are positive for the area and have pretty much taken on board our views to create a safer, cleaner, nicer looking market with manageable disruptions so far, which is what we wanted.”

The majority of students at Cambridge University now come from state schools

DID YOU KNOW?

Challenging preconceptions: Oxford and Cambridge envoys offer advice to Hackney students considering their university applications

University challenged

IT'S a commonly held belief that you have to be from a certain social background to get into top universities, like Oxford and Cambridge.

Not so, according to the tutors, students and other Oxbridge representatives that visited the borough to bust some of the myths that might deter Hackney pupils from applying.

Traditionally, few local students have gone to either university, despite the fact Hackney has been the most improved borough in the country for post-16 exam results for the past five years.

Last year however, seven students from Mossbourne Community Academy accepted Cambridge places. And nationally, applications to Oxford from state school pupils have increased by 35 per cent over the past 10 years, while the majority of students at Cambridge now come from state schools.

More than 160 young people attended the 20 February event, organised by The Learning Trust at the City Academy, E9. Jules Pipe, Mayor of Hackney, said: “The borough has a large pool of young talent and we want our brightest pupils to know that a place at a top university is a genuine option for them.

“I hope that this event has encouraged pupils to aim high and to achieve their full potential wherever their ambitions may lie.”

Clapton Girls’ Academy

student Le My Dang, who achieved the best GCSE results in Hackney last year, found it insightful to speak to current students.

“It’s been great to learn more about the courses as it’s sometimes hard to get a good idea from just reading course information,” she said.

Stoke Newington School

student Jake Morgan Stead added: “None of my family have been to Oxford or Cambridge so I’m unsure about what they are looking for.

“You hear a lot about the interview process, so it’s good to hear more about all of that this evening to know what I’m aiming for.”

Dr Patricia Fara, a Cambridge tutor, explained the university had one clear aim. She said: “We want to find the best and the brightest students, wherever they come from.”

Sir Neil Chalmers, an

Oxford warden, added: “We’ve some great success stories from Hackney’s state schools at Oxford, and we hope through events like this, and our continuing partnership with local schools, that we will get even more.”

Loud & proud

Stoke Newington School celebrated LGBT History Month in style with a consciousness raising musical extravaganza

THERE is nothing like a party to help wipe out intolerance, says Elly Barnes, teacher and human rights guru at Stoke Newington School.

The N16 school – which is recognised for its work to tackle prejudice – celebrated Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Trans (LGBT) History Month this February with a concert featuring pop hits and show tunes, as well as a march through Clissold Park.

'Edge of Heaven' by Wham, 'A Little Respect'

by Erasure and 'I (who have nothing)' featured among the set list, alongside pupils own songs, for the evening event on 24 February.

Also entertaining the crowd were the William Patten Primary School Orchestra who sang 'America' from West Side Story; charity band

The L Project; and Cenk Karaferya, a Turkish counter tenor.

The London Gay Men's Chorus closed the show with 'Bring Me Sunshine' and 'Our Time'. (Stoke Newington School pupils are set to perform with the chorus again, when they appear at the Royal Festival Hall in May.)

Not to be left out, design and technology students created pink biscuits, key rings and badges to sell during the interval.

LGBT History Month is an annual event that marks the progress of gay rights and related civil rights movements.

Preparation for the school show took three months, with workshops and visits from trans theatre company Hot Pencil Press helping students develop their monologue writing and performance skills.

"These events are exceptionally important in terms of community cohesion," says Elly, who was named number one in the Independent on Sunday's list of most influential LGBT role models last year.

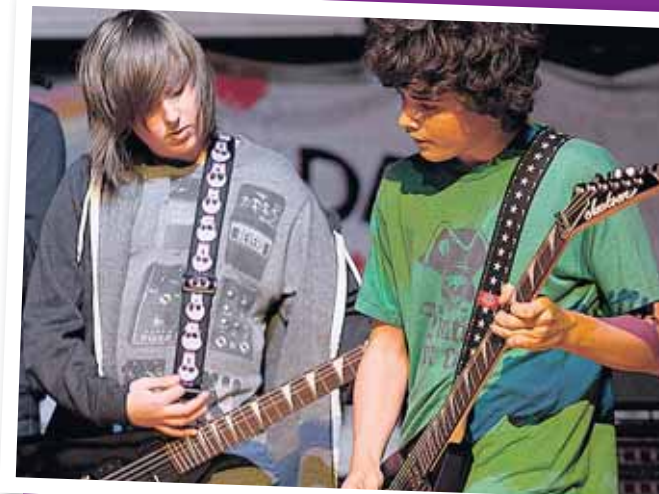

"I cannot think of a better way to show solidarity and commitment to raising awareness than a massive celebration from young people to show that we can eradicate homophobia in schools – if we can do this in a school in Hackney, then we can do this anywhere."

She added: "Our students love any opportunity to get up and perform, this was just another great reason to get up in front of an audience and do their thing."

Earlier in the month's festivities, Year Eight students broke out the samba, brass instruments, drums and ghetto blasters for a Pride-style march around Clissold Park. The pupils created banners with designs inspired by the New York artist Keith Haring and marched around the N16 park to entertain and inspire.

Sue Sanders, founder of LGBT History Month, was among the concert audience.

"I think the work the school is doing is leading the way all schools should be going, in that they are giving young people a real education, enabling students to learn about the diversity of Britain and to respect the human rights of all," she said.

Hackney-born DJ Trevor Nelson, who won a lifetime achievement prize at the Sony Academy Awards, can't wait for the BBC Radio 1 Hackney Weekend

TREVOR Nelson doesn't usually do festivals. "I don't like wellies, the toilets, mud, sleeping outdoors," says the Hackney-raised DJ and presenter. "But I love the music," he adds, admitting that he usually watches Glastonbury and the like on TV.

However, this summer's BBC Radio 1 Hackney Weekend is shaping up to be quite different: two days of performances by some of the world's biggest acts, but with no camping and mud kept to a minimum (weather permitting).

Trevor is one of the official ambassadors for the event, alongside Leona Lewis, Plan B, and Phillips Idowu. "It'll be like nothing people have seen before, and right on the doorstep of the Olympic Stadium," he says.

The free event, being run in partnership with the Council, will see 100,000 people descend on Hackney Marshes this June – with at least half the tickets reserved for residents.

Last year, more than 800,000 people applied for just 50,000 tickets to Radio 1's Big Weekend in Carlisle, and demand is expected to be even bigger this year.

"It's a once-in-a-lifetime event – people can't be apathetic about it. Everyone here will almost definitely be able to get a ticket so registering is really important," he says.

And revellers get to sleep in comfort? "It's a day event, so at the end of it you get to go home, shower and sleep in your own bed," laughs Trevor.

So far Florence + The Machine, Jessie J, Ed Sheeran, Professor Green, Emile Sande, Labrinth, Jack White, Lana Del Ray, Ting Tings, Maverick Sabre, Tinie Tempah, and Leona Lewis are among the announced line-up. More acts are set to be revealed in the coming weeks, alongside some top secret massive main stage headliners.

Superstar DJs Chase & Status, David Guetta, Deadmau5, Eric Prydz, Magnetic Man, Nero, and Swedish House Mafia will also feature. MCs dominate the 1Xtra stage, while the dance arena promises an 'Ibiza experience'.

"There will be something for everyone," he says. Adding: "It's our job to reflect what's big in music; for this sort of line-up anywhere else you'd pay a three-figure sum. Hackney Marshes is iconic, world renowned. And if you didn't get a ticket for the Games you get to have a look at the Olympic site."

A former pupil at Princess May School, N16, Trevor began his career as a DJ mixing his way across East London in the 1980s.

"I spent the first 21 years of my life in Hackney. My musical education was on a radio show on Dalston Lane, working in an Upper Clapton Road record shop, and putting on parties."

He joined Kiss FM in 1985, moving to BBC Radio in 1996. Over the years, he has become the nation's go-to man for soul music, volunteers on projects for disadvantaged young people, and presents TV sport including the FIFA World Cup and coverage of NFL American football on Channel 5.

"I did bid for Olympic tickets, but when the online system asked for dates I didn't know if I'd be working. But I'll find a way – I'll do anything for the Olympics, I love it all, even if it's rolling up to do something on lacrosse or archery," says Trevor.

Two years ago he won a lifetime achievement award at the Sony Radio Academy Awards. "It's like our Oscars – a career highlight. I've enjoyed everything in my career, but this really made me feel I'd made it from a DJ in Hackney to a broadcaster."

He feels the current generation of East Londoners are now forging their own creative journeys, looking to their local areas, rather than the US, for inspiration.

"Hackney has always had a mixed community with a love of music. There's been a big media focus on the area recently, but there's always been talent here. Look at Labrinth: he's a standard-bearer and a businessman making fantastic music, he's got his own fashion label, a restaurant and still has a base in Hackney. It's the same hard-working spirit that has always existed. People from Hackney are proud to say they are from here."

Trevor is really genuinely excited about this summer's home-grown festival.

"I've got to urge everyone in Hackney to register for tickets, the festival is going to be amazing," he says. After all, Trevor doesn't usually do festivals, but when he does, it may just be one of the best in the world.

“It's a once-in-a-lifetime event. Everyone here will almost definitely be able to get a ticket so registering is important”

THE GREEN GENIE

Frequently asked questions about the new recycling scheme

Q. Why is Hackney looking at this now?

A. The borough has changed considerably since the Green Box recycling service was first introduced in 2003, as has recycling technology. In addition, neighbouring boroughs, which have higher recycling rates, are using different methods and getting better results. If Cabinet agree the new scheme, it will be introduced in March next year.

Q. I live in a flat and can't use the Green Box scheme. Will I be able to use the new scheme?

A. More than 20 per cent of homes in Hackney aren't suitable for the current collection system because they are above shops, on estates, or simply don't have room to store a box. Under the new scheme more than 14,500 extra homes could be included. This means more households can start recycling and more waste could be prevented from going to landfill.

Q. What day would my recycling be picked up?

A. The same day as your household waste collection.

Q. Where would my recycling go to?

A. It will be taken to a facility in Bow where it will be sorted and processed before being sold on for recycling.

Q. I've read the proposed system is less environmentally friendly?

A. A trial of the new system in Cazenove ward boosted recycling levels by a quarter. It also means there will be less waste collection vehicles on the borough's roads.

Q. But aren't the materials produced of lower quality?

A. Yes, they can be. Paper and glass can be easily contaminated and more materials will be rejected at the plant – about four to five per cent, though this will be more than offset by the overall increase in recycled waste. Also, new facilities are set to open in 2016, which should reduce this and produce better quality paper and glass.

Q. What happens to the lower quality paper and glass?

A. There are UK markets for recycled paper and glass, including tissues, newsprint, road materials and home insulation. As more advanced technology becomes available there will be many more UK markets for recycled materials.

Q. Is this about saving money?

A. Partly, yes, although not in the coming financial year. In the long term the new scheme could save £12million by 2020, as well as increasing the volume of recycling in Hackney.

Recycling changes proposed

Changes are planned for the borough's recycling service that would come into play next year

THE borough's recycling service is set to change next year under Council proposals to save £12million by 2020 and boost recycling rates.

This special edition of Green Matters explains the proposals in detail and why they are so important for Hackney.

“ We have trialled this new collection scheme and the results have been overwhelmingly positive ”

At the moment, street level properties receive a Green Box collection with materials hand sorted into separate compartments on a recycling truck.

This method can produce good quality recycled materials, but unfortunately, it has not met the Council target to recycle 50 per cent of the borough's waste.

With the cost of sending waste to landfill rising sharply, it is essential that Hackney improves upon the current level of 25 per cent.

Under the new scheme, recycling is placed in a sack on the curbside which is collected and later separated at a sorting facility in Bow.

An ongoing trial of this method in Cazenove ward, which began last September, has seen recycling levels rise by over quarter. It would also mean that an additional 14,533 properties, which are not currently served by the Green Box scheme, could benefit from a recycling collection from outside their homes.

The Council's Cabinet is set to vote on introducing the new proposals at a meeting on 26 March.

Cllr Feryal Demirci, Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, said: “The Green Box scheme has served us well in Hackney. Since it started 10 years ago, we have seen recycling levels increase to 25 per cent, but in order to increase recycling levels further, we need some fresh thinking.

“Because of Hackney's housing mix, we need to switch to a scheme that reaches all our residents.

“The new collection scheme is quick and easy to use, and will allow us to push recycling levels higher and provide a service which is both environmentally and financially sustainable for Hackney, whilst still being capable of producing a good quality end product.”

Household recycling collections are under review

Recycling in Hackney: the facts

Hackney Council has a target to recycle 50% of all household waste by 2020.

Currently 25% of Hackney's household waste is recycled.

If the service remains unchanged (under the green box scheme) our recycling rate could fall to 22% by 2020.

The recycling sack scheme could help us to achieve 34% by 2020. Food and garden waste recycling could help boost this further.

DID YOU KNOW?

Currently, 30,000 tonnes of recyclable waste is sent to incineration and landfill in Hackney each year.

DID YOU KNOW?

Less than 1% of materials collected from green boxes are rejected at the recycling plant. Currently around 4-5% of materials in the orange sacks are rejected. Taking this into account Hackney will still recycle about 26% more using recycling sacks.

14,533 properties in Hackney are not suitable for the green box scheme (flats above shops and houses which have been split into individual flats). That's 21.7% of all the homes in Hackney!

Borough-wide use of the recycling sack scheme could save taxpayers £12m by 2020.

DID YOU KNOW?

55
The capacity of a green box is 55 litres.

60
The capacity of a recycling sack is 60 litres.
(and you can put out as many as you need)

35% of Cazenove residents noticed that their streets were cleaner after recycling sack collections.

35%

68% of residents in Cazenove ward thought the recycling sacks made recycling easier.

Refuse lorries collect recycling sacks 55% quicker than vans collecting green boxes, reducing congestion. On Osbaldeston Road in Cazenove ward average collection times were reduced from 1h28m to 36m.

DID YOU KNOW?

Currently bagged recycling is taken to Bow where it is sorted and separated by machinery. From 2016 onwards a new state-of-the-art recycling facility will be available in North London

Whether you have a green box or recycling sack, using them more will save money and help the environment.

Sparked – Neville Gabie

Until 18 March, The View, The Greenway, Marshgate Lane, E15 2PJ

AS the grand spectacles of London's Olympic bonanza are projected to millions around the world, few people will have witnessed the nuts-and-bolts of their making.

A new multimedia exhibition by Neville Gabie, artist in residence for the Olympic Delivery Authority, provides a behind-the-scenes perspective on the construction of the games. Part of the Sparked art series, Neville's collection of film and photographic works have been inspired by his time spent on London's expanding Olympic Park. The works document aspects from the fabric of the venues to the everyday lives on those working in the huge range of jobs at the site, giving a textured and human account of London 2012. He says: "This project brings together things I have long been passionate about. The diversity of community, engagement with people and place and a shared experience of sport and play."

PREVIEW*Regent's Canal in Three Dimensions

Until 27 May, The London Canal Museum, 12-13 New Wharf Road, N1 9RT

THE 3D craze continues with a new photographic exhibition of Hackney's waterways at London's Canal Museum. Regent's Canal in Three Dimensions is the work of professional travel photographer Ethel Davies, who has been documenting the iconic canal in 3D over the past two years. Combining this resurgence of one of photography's more intriguing effects with a traditional location, Ethel presents a surreal new perspective on an everyday London vista. However, rather than simply exploiting the novel format of the 3D trend, Davies has focused on producing high quality images with artistic, as well as historic dimensions that depict the industrial archaeology and the intimate charm of the waterway.

Tongue Fu: International Women's Day

Rich Mix, 35-47 Bethnal Green Rd, E1 6LA, 8 March, 8pm, £5/7

ACCORDING to the creators of one of the UK's leading spoken word nights, Tongue Fu is risk-taking, raw, un-rehearsed and spontaneous. This month, the event's sassy orations will come from an all-female cast, who will commemorate International Women's Day with their bold, amusing and often provocative perspectives on politics, relationships and everyday modern life. Headlined by one of the UK's leading storytellers, Jan Blake, alongside multiple slam champion Anna

Freeman, the line-up of artists will perform to improvised accompaniments from the Tongue Fu band (Nostalgia 77, UNKLE), hosted by Chris Redmond of Radio 4's Pick Of The Week. Stefan Johnson won the young learners award for the effort he puts into his study, high achievement and positive attitude.

The outstanding progress gong was shared by Mason Collins and Marcus Ellis.

Other winners included Nazma Aktar, 19, for academic achievement; Maria Agbigbe, an art, design and digital media learner, and Mark Welfare, a carpentry and joinery student, both for vocational achievement; Chloe Roxburgh, 17, apprentice/work placement learner of the year; Alpha Kamara, promoting equality and diversity; Kamwah Madeleine Ennis effort and determination; and Maxine Adesina and Nikki Gordon shared the learner voice award.

Hackney-born Team GB hockey player Darren Cheesman presented the awards at the 22 February ceremony.

Principal Ian Ashman congratulated all students for their passion and determination.

News in brief

Indomitable cricket team hit for six – but keep batting on

SIX consecutive cricket finals; each time just missing out on the winning trophy. Courageous young sloggers from Grasmere Primary School have been celebrated for being one of the most consistently outstanding teams in the British Land Kids Cricket League's history.

The school has entered the tournament since its inception reaching the final on every occasion.

To celebrate their achievements, organisers created a new prize – London Cricketing School of the Year – to recognise the team's gutsy spirit.

Ian McGovern, assistant head teacher, said: "We have a cricket coach who works with all of the classes as well as an after school club. The children didn't know they were going to win before the presentation so it was a great surprise for them."

The British Land Kids Cricket League is the biggest primary school cricket competition in the UK. A total of 3,000 children, from 256 schools across 17 London boroughs compete. For more info, call: 020 7226 2705; or visit: www.capitalkidscricket.co.uk

Borough's vocational training scheme gets royal patronage

THE Duke of York is to be patron of the borough's new vocational training college. Prince Andrew announced he would be the figurehead for Hackney

The Duke of York takes a keen interest in the borough

University Technical College (UTC) during a speech at Buckingham Palace on 24 February.

The move comes after the Duke made two visits to Hackney Community College, where the UTC will be based, and was impressed by the vocational traineeship schemes on offer.

Head Annie Blackmore said: "Having His Royal Highness as patron emphasises the importance of offering an innovative curriculum, which Hackney UTC will provide." Hackney UTC will combine vocational learning with traditional GCSEs. Specialising in digital technology and health, it will offer clear routes into higher education and work. The college opens in September.

Got the love?

Hackney's 2012 Youth Ambassadors went to find out what local young people think about the Radio 1 Hackney Weekend

What acts are you most excited about seeing?

All of them. It will be nice to see acts coming to Hackney, as we don't normally get the chance.

What impact do you think the festival will have?

It'll give people a chance to see there are opportunities for them to see things and to have fun at the same time.

What impact do you think the Olympics will have?

Opportunities for local people like jobs, the opening ceremony, and sports and community events.

Issy Law, 16, from Stoke Newington

What acts are you most excited about seeing?

Jessie J, Tinie Tempah, Labrinth and Professor Green. I think it will be a great event.

What impact do you think the festival will have?

I think it will make people feel included in the celebration of the Olympics and it will bring the community together in a fun and enjoyable way.

What impact do you think the Olympics will have?

I think the Olympics being in London and Hackney will make residents feel included. I think it will also create many opportunities for local people in terms of jobs, and the venues that will remain will be available to residents.

Also it will show Hackney in a good light and display the great things about the borough, and it will bring different cultures from around the world to Hackney. The greatest show on earth will be in London, in Hackney, it will be amazing.

Shaneice Bailey, 16, Homerton

New disability athletics club

A GRASSROOTS disability athletics club is set to be established at Clissold Leisure Centre, following the award of a £2,000 grant.

The project will see 60 young people with disabilities receive two hours of coaching per week.

The first month will be free, then athletes will be asked to pay £2 per week. It is hoped the new club will improve disability sport access in the borough and ultimately link up with Hackney Hawks athletics club.

London Youth Games sponsors Balfour Beatty announced the grant on 21 February. Paralympic gold medallist David Weir, Commonwealth 400m champion and TV presenter Iwan Thomas, and Shadow Minister for Sport, Tessa Jowell, all supported the central London event.

Anthony Kendall, Chair of the London Youth Games Foundation, said: "Congratulations to Hackney which has shown the imagination and energy to propose a scheme which our judging panels have been prepared to support in 2012. We are confident they will make a long-term difference to the lives of young people in their communities."

Success for 40 Hackney Young Games Makers

FORTY young people from Hackney have made it through a rigorous selection process to become one of 2,000 Young Games Maker volunteers from all over the country and assist athletes at Olympic and Paralympic venues.

The four teams of 10 young people, aged 16 to 18, will work as volunteers

The Aquatics Centre team

supporting Paralympic athletes at the Aquatics Centre, ExCeL and the Olympic stadium.

Kim Pham, an aspiring weightlifter, will have the chance to observe her own sport at close quarters as a member of the team that will be assisting Paralympic competitors in weightlifting, judo, taekwondo and table tennis at ExCeL.

Two teams, including one from Clapton Girls school, will be based poolside at the Aquatics Centre, meeting swimmers as they arrive, collecting their kit boxes, and ensuring they collect them again after each race. One team has already picked up their Games Maker uniforms and spent a day at the venue doing dummy runs before taking part in an Aquatics Centre test event.

Shaneice Bailey, 16, has been a 2012 Youth Ambassador for Hackney for four years and was delighted to be part of the Young Games Maker team. She said: "This is an amazing opportunity. It will be a great way to acquire and develop a vast range of skills such as confidence and organisation and to be a part of the 2012 Games."

Hackney Young Games Maker, Kim Pham

The fourth team will work with Paralympic athletes at the Olympic Stadium.

Poor immunisation take up in the borough is targeted, with new clinics introduced to make it easier for residents to attend

Immunisation drive

A NEW childhood immunisation drive has been launched to increase take up in the borough.

Immunisation rates are lower in Hackney than many parts of London, according NHS East London and the City.

Under the new programme, more clinics will now offer immunisation drop-in sessions.

It is hoped new clinic times will also make it easier for Hackney's sizeable Orthodox Jewish community to attend. Due to a challenging domestic life, with a larger family, it can be quite difficult for some families to get to GP immunisation sessions.

Devorah Sudak, manager at Lubavitch Children's Centre, N16, said: "Because of the times and places of previous clinics, some large families from the Jewish community just can't go.

"At Lubavitch, we've added a Sunday clinic that's already proving popular and the numbers are going up."

Immunisations protect children from diseases such as tetanus, polio, whooping cough, measles, mumps and rubella. They are among the safest medications and given to millions of children worldwide.

Clinics now offering the immunisation service to assist the Orthodox Jewish community include Fountainayne Road Health Centre, N16; John Scott Health Centre, N4; Norwood Centre, N16; Cranwich Road Surgery, N16; and Lubavitch Children's Centre, N16.

Vaccines are also available at GP practices and clinics for all residents across the borough.

Caring for the male carers

ST JOSEPH'S Hospice has launched a new social group for male carers in Hackney.

Staff at the Mare Street hospice want to give men who look after someone else, the chance to find new friends, share experiences, relax and pick up useful tips and information. The group will meet for three hours each month. So far, a music and film quiz, plus a free lunch are on offer at the first meeting at 11am on 7 March.

While on 4 April, complementary therapies will be on offer, as well as a chance to see archive film footage and photos of the East End. The 2 May session will focus on computer skills and getting the best out of the internet, as well as an introduction to Hackney library services. For more info, call Rachael Yearwood on: 020 8525 3140.

Handbook offers advocates peace of mind

EXPRESSING your wishes can be a daunting task for people with mental health needs – whether it's about accessing services, or treatment.

Local charity City and Hackney Mind was the first organisation in the country to establish a mental health advocacy service to address this issue. Advocates support people to access information and consider their options in order to make their own, informed decisions, and get their voices heard.

The charity last month launched a booklet to aid advocates, based on its pioneering work in this area since 2008.

Advocates come from all walks of life, and can be volunteers or professions working in related fields such as interpreting and social work.

Martyn Cooper from the Tudor Road-based charity said: "We have used our experience to produce this handbook – the first of its kind.

"It is primarily intended as a guide for advocacy service providers, but is equally useful to anyone wishing to get a better understanding of the practice."

The Independent Mental Health Advocacy Handbook covers a range of everyday issues, including the basics of advocacy, legal rights and the dilemmas advocates might face.

The 24 February launch event was attended by civic dignitaries, NHS representatives, community service providers, and Mind staff and volunteers from across London.

For the record

LOCAL historians have a long tradition of making important contributions to the collections of Hackney Archives.

Often referred to as antiquarians, they would use official records to research the history of their area, as well as collecting contemporary information. Their research later became archives in its own right.

JR Spratling (1854-1934) lived in Dalston as a child, and then moved to Stoke Newington. He was the editor of the North London Guardian for 34 years and wrote articles under the pseudonym 'Giltspur'. He spent his spare time researching at Somerset House and the Public Record Office. When the North London Guardian folded in 1916, he wrote occasionally for the Hackney Gazette and was co-opted onto Stoke Newington Borough Council from 1916-1922. Hackney Archives holds Spratling's local history notes, manuscripts and poetry.

Wynne Edwin Baxter was born in Lewes, East Sussex, in 1844. He had moved to 170 Stoke Newington Church Street in 1883 and lived there until his death in 1920. His son, Francis William, lived at the same address until he died in 1932. Both had an interest in local history and served on the Stoke Newington Libraries Committee. Francis Baxter was also a member of the Stoke Newington Literary and Scientific Society for many years. Their collection includes historical research notes, lectures and deeds for local properties.

John Robert Daniel-Tyssen was steward of the Manor of Hackney from 1829 to 1852. His ancestors came to Hackney from Holland in the late 1600s and bought two of the Manors of Hackney and the lease on the third. Part of the estate had been inherited by his father. He collected manuscripts and books about Hackney's past, which were donated to the parish in 1882 and moved to the new Central Library on Mare Street in 1908. This collection formed the basis for the present Archives and Local Studies service. He is also thought to have commissioned local artists to make a record of buildings and scenes that he knew would shortly disappear.

Florence Bagust was one of the more notable 'community observers', whose collections are preserved by the Archives. Her family moved to Clapton in the 1870s, when she was a child and lived there for the rest of her life. She collected as much information about Clapton as she could and filled nine volumes with her notes. In fact, they are more like scrapbooks, containing a wealth of photographs, water colours, postcards, newspaper cuttings, articles from books, inscriptions from tombstones and copies of old documents.

They also record her own and other people's memories about Clapton and how it had changed. Her introduction explains that 'as I have myself lived in Clapton since I was a very small child, I have had the opportunity of first-hand study'. Only someone who was familiar with the area and its people could have found out so much detail. Florence's journals are now regarded as one of the key sources to discover information about Clapton in the early 20th century.

Residents still have a vital part to play in contributing to the Archives wealth of local history. The Council service has joined forces with Hackney Museum for the 'Mapping The Change' project to record the effect of the London 2012 Games on the borough and the lives of its residents.

MORE INFO

Hackney Archives looks after Council administrative records and archives dating back to 1700. It also keeps records for individuals and organisations with links to Hackney. # The Mayor and Councillors Councillors are elected by Hackney residents and serve for four years. The last borough elections were in May 2010.

Councillors have a range of responsibilities, including helping to oversee the Council and its services. They hold advice surgeries where residents can meet their local representative and ask them to take up issues that may be of concern.

Generally they can help with Council related matters, but if the issue is the responsibility of another person or organisation, councillors can often point people in the right direction and tell residents who they need to see.

Hackney has 57 councillors representing areas called wards – illustrated in the map opposite.

To check which councillor covers your area, or confirm surgery times, call: 020 8356 3373. More info: www.hackney.gov.uk/l-mayor-cabinet-councillors.htm

The Mayor

Jules Pipe

Hackney has an executive Mayor, Jules Pipe, who is not a councillor, but is directly elected by the entire borough. The Mayor is the political leader of the Council, overseeing the budget and all Council services. Civic and ceremonial duties are undertaken by the Speaker of the Council who is elected annually from the borough's 57 councillors. The current Speaker is Cllr Susan Fajana-Thomas.

Recipes straight from the ovens at Hoxton Apprentice

www.hoxtonapprentice.com

STEPHEN Wood, 22, has recently joined the Hoxton Apprentice as a member of the kitchen team. Stephen always wanted to work with food, but found his lack of experience a challenge. He had worked at the Horniman Museum café in South London, but they were unable to provide Stephen with the back of house opportunity he desired so much.

Last November, Stephen discovered the Hoxton Apprentice website and was delighted to see that it provided training opportunities. He started work under a voluntary programme and was selected to become a fully paid apprentice in January. Talking about his time at Hoxton Apprentice, Stephen says: "It is a fantastic experience – the team at the restaurant saw my potential and have given me the chance to start the career I have always wanted. I can't wait for the future."

Serves 4

Preparation time
15 mins

Cooking time
15 mins

Ingredients

- 2 large chicken breast fillets, halved
- 4 eggs, fried
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 4 lean rashers of bacon, with rind removed
- 12 slices white or wholegrain bread
- 25g butter
- 4 tbsp mayonnaise
- 2 tbsp Dijon mustard
- 2 ripe large tomatoes, thinly sliced
- 4 washed lettuce leaves

Method

- Use a sharp knife to cut chicken breasts horizontally through the centre. Cut in half crossways to make 8 pieces
- Fry the eggs on both sides until golden brown.

Place on a plate and put to one side

- Heat the oil in a non-stick frying pan over medium to high heat. Add chicken and bacon and cook, turning occasionally, for 4-5 minutes or until cooked. Drain on paper towel.
- Toast the bread. Place one piece of bread on a plate spreading it with butter, mayonnaise and mustard. Then add 1/3 of the chicken and bacon. Top with another slice of toast with pieces of tomato, one fried egg and lettuce. Finally add another slice of bread, with butter, mayonnaise and mustard and place on top of the sandwich. Secure the sandwich with a cocktail stick and serve. Repeat with the remaining three sandwiches
- Serve with chips and salad.

The Hoxton Apprentice is a social enterprise set up to train unemployed Hackney people – both in the kitchen and front of house.

Six-month apprenticeships prepare people for the workplace and give them the chance to gain a NVQ in Hospitality. Profits are returned to Training For Life, the charity which operates the restaurant, to deliver more training for unemployed people. If you would like to offer an apprentice a job, or become an apprentice yourself, call Ben Anderson on: 020 7749 2800.

Adult care services

RESIDENTS have until 13 March to have their say on an audit of adult social care services in Hackney.

The Government has ended the Care Quality Commission's annual assessments of local authority adult social care services. Instead, councils are required to publish a 'local account' to enable residents, service users, carers and providers to judge how well they are performing against priorities each financial year.

The report highlights how performance is monitored and measured, and explains what the Council has done well and what areas need further improvement.

The Council is inviting comments and suggestions on how the report looks; how easy it is to read and understand; and what future accounts should include.

It also welcomes suggestions on ways to measure how well the Council helps people stay healthy; helps people maintain their independence; safeguards people in vulnerable situations; and ensures people control their own care. To take part, complete the online questionnaire at: www.hackney.gov.uk/local-account

Schools road safety

THE Council is reviewing keep clear markings outside the borough's schools and wants to hear residents' views on the subject.

It is important that all pedestrians can be seen by motorists, and that children and parents have a clear view of on-coming traffic outside schools.

The Council has already consulted with all Hackney schools in the borough to standardise the hours of operation of traffic restrictions.

This review will give schools the opportunity to request either new markings, or to relocate existing ones. It is hoped any new measures will be operational by April.

Comment in writing, by 26 March, to the Assistant Director (Public Realm), Hackney Council, Keltan House, 89-115 Mare Street, E8 4RU.

Plans of the proposed measures can be inspected, between 9am-5pm, Mon-

Fri, at Keltan House. For more info, visit: www.consultationfinder.com/hackney

Tenancy strategy

THE Government is requiring all local authorities to consult on a tenancy strategy for social housing, and residents have until 2 April to give their views.

The main purpose of such a strategy is to set out councils' views on the kinds of tenancies that social landlords in their area should provide in the future.

The Council has already decided not to introduce fixed-term tenancies in Hackney Homes properties and has no plans to introduce the Government's new Affordable Rent tenure.

Also, all existing tenants on a social rent (including those in housing association homes) will not be affected by the introduction of fixed term tenancies, unless they choose to move to a home let on this basis.

To view the draft strategy, and for more info, visit: www.hackney.gov.uk/tenancy-strategy.htm. To respond, e-mail: consultation@hackney.gov.uk

Introduction

Hackney Council has once again delivered a budget that prioritises the frontline services most important to the borough's residents. Against a backdrop of sustained cuts to local government, with Hackney needing to save £25million this year alone, the Council's budget, effective from 1 April, continues to support key areas – clean and safe streets, young people and education, leisure and culture, and a green and sustainable borough – as well as safeguard support services for our most vulnerable residents.

The Council will spend over £41million keeping your streets clean and safe. This includes sweeping all residential streets at least twice a week, continuing to provide a weekly household refuse collection and providing a wide range of recycling services. It also funds a daily street cleaning service to keep your town centres and high streets welcoming places to shop and do business, enforcement against fly-tipping and graffiti and a borough-wide CCTV service to help tackle crime and anti-social behaviour.

In 2011/12, Hackney residents helped to save nearly £1/2million by diverting waste away from landfill sites through recycling. 2012/13 will see the recycling collection service extended – rolling out to every above-shop residential property, enabling even more residents to recycle more and reduce household waste. In addition, we will offer businesses a comprehensive recycling service, helping everyone to contribute towards a green and sustainable borough.

The Council's strong partnership with the police continues to deliver results with crime in the borough at its lowest level for 12 years. In 2012/13, we will continue to work together to tackle crime and anti-social behaviour including gang violence, and the Council will maintain a dedicated team of Community Safety Wardens to support this work.

Over £116m will go towards supporting adults and older people who use social care services. Enabling

Mayor Jules Pipe said:

"Our budget makes no reductions or cuts to the services received by Hackney residents. Once again there will be no library closures – in fact we've just opened the first brand new library for nearly 20 years in the borough – no closure of children's or youth centres and no reduction in the cleanliness of our streets or frequency of refuse collections."

residents to remain as independent for as long as possible is at the centre of the Council's approach to adult social care and this year we will increase the number of residents receiving personal budgets, allowing them greater control over their care as well as deliver a wide range of preventative and reablement services. We will also continue to provide homecare and residential care services to residents who need extra support.

Around £16million will support the delivery of sport, leisure and cultural services including Hackney Museum; eight libraries attracting 1.5million visits each year, and free sports and physical activity sessions in many of the borough's 62 parks and open spaces.

£226million will be invested into education services in the borough, providing school and nursery places to over 10,000 young people. An additional £62million will allow 7,000 8-19 year olds to engage in positive activities, help safeguard vulnerable children and provide support to help keep families together wherever possible. The Council's Building Schools for the Future programme will deliver further improvements to the borough's secondary and special schools with work at both Cardinal Pole Catholic School and Our Lady's Covent High School being complete by the end of the year while work starts at Stormont Special School.

However, as the pressure on Council funding continues to grow, the financial outlook for the coming years is much more uncertain and Hackney will not escape the impact of further cuts to its funding. While in the past, sound financial management and efficiency savings have allowed the Council to maintain the same levels of frontline services, this will not be the case in the future and difficult decisions will need to be made. Mayor of Hackney Jules Pipe, said:

"Annual savings have been used in the past to fund new services or expand and improve existing ones, as well as freeze council tax. The Council continues to look for such savings, but now the cash saved must go into filling the gap created by the loss of government grant.

Any further savings that can be wrung out of the Council's administrative and back office functions in future years will be dwarfed by the size of further reductions to our central government grant. We will keep looking for more and more efficient ways to do things, but the fact is, in future years, we will not be able to absorb the impact of planned central government cuts without services being affected.

The picture for 2013/14 and 2014/15 is uncertain, with initial forecasts showing that we will need to find up to another £40million in savings in those future years. This means that difficult choices will have to be made and we will be widely consulting with residents over the coming year to ensure you are involved in making these decisions."

Tackling isolation and supporting older people to remain independent for as long as possible

What the Council spends on services for you

-  Funded entirely by specific Government grants not transferable to other services
-  Funded by Government grant and Council Tax (£6 Government grant for every £1 Council Tax)
-  Funded by Government grants and rents

In 2011/12, the Council’s recurrent Government grant funding was cut by £44million. In 2012/13, an additional £25million in savings will need to be found. Despite this, the Council has delivered a budget allowing frontline services to be protected for a further financial year. This chart shows some of the main areas of spending directly related to your key frontline services.

Your services in 2012/13

While very tough decisions will have to be made in the coming years, the Council has set a budget for 2012/13 that protects the services most important to you. Here are just some of the things the Council will be providing in the coming year.

Supporting vulnerable residents and promoting independence

- ✓ Increasing the number of service users receiving personal budgets, giving them greater control over their care
- ✓ Working with local businesses to secure even more benefits and discounts for unpaid carers through the Carers Card scheme
- ✓ Setting up a dedicated confidential advice and support phone line for home care users
- ✓ Supporting potentially isolated older people through a range of befriending and volunteering programmes

Clean and safe streets

- ✓ Working with the police and other partners to develop innovative approaches to cutting crime
- ✓ Responding to resident consultation by making it easier to enforce against irresponsible dog owners
- ✓ Continuing to deliver a weekly household refuse service
- ✓ Carrying out around 15,000 visits and enforcement actions to tackle noise nuisance, illegal street traders and litter louts

A good place to grow up

- ✓ Engaging 7,000 young people aged 8 – 19 in positive activities,
- ✓ Supporting 52 projects identified and developed by young people through the Youth Opportunity Fund
- ✓ Continuing to deliver on our commitment to provide five youth hubs across the borough, each offering a wide range of activities and support

Keeping Hackney green

- ✓ Ensuring that everyone, whether at home, school, work or out-and-about has access to a Council recycling service
- ✓ Extending our recycling collections to every above-shop flat in the borough, making it even easier for everyone to reduce household waste
- ✓ Providing the same levels of recycling collections throughout the Olympic and Paralympic Games

A good place to live

- ✓ Expanding our Parks for Life programme to provide even more free sport and physical activity sessions
- ✓ Working with GLL to provide excellent leisure facilities across seven centres
- ✓ Running a wide range of special exhibitions, regular events and a dedicated schools programme at Hackney Museum
- ✓ Managing and maintaining the borough's award winning parks and green spaces
